Tá	“I hope you’re telling the truth!”
Rop	The man stuck his fist out and put it under Colm’s nostrils.
Má	“If you make any attempt to play a trick on me, I’ll break your neck!”
Dhruid	Colm backed away from the counter.
D’iompaigh	The man turned around and hurried out.
Nuair a	When Mrs. O’Lonargain returned, she had a few bags with her and her hair was fashionably restyled.
Chuaigh	She went upstairs immediately.
Bhí	She was wearing a tight new dress when she came back.
Chuaigh	She went behind the bar.
An dtainíonn	“Do you like my dress?”
Tá	“It’s very nice,” answered Colm.
Bhí	“The price was very nice, too,” she said.
Ach	“But poor Sean left me sitting pretty and I’m going to enjoy life from here on out ...”
An bhfuil	“Are you hungry?”
Tá	“Yes.”
Dúnfaidh	“I’ll close the pub early tonight.”
Rachaimid	“We’ll go out for a meal.”
Tá	“There’s a nice restaurant in the neighborhood and we’ll go there.”
Nuair a	When the bar was closed, Mrs. O’Lonargain took his arm and they went out to the restaurant.
Cuireadh	The were seated at a table that was near the window.
Thug	The waiter gave them each a menu.
Bíodh	“Have what you want,” said Mrs. O’Longargain to Colm.
Mise	“I’m paying.”
